IN A PIT MADE FOR OTHERS.

MONMOUTH PARK MENHAVE THEMSELVES TO THANK FOR THEIR PLIGHT.

THE VALUE OF THEIR HORSES, FARMS AND TURP PROPERTY IN GENERAL REDUCED THROUGH THEIR OWN BLUNDERS

THE BACKGROUND. John Y. McKanes of Monmouth Park digged pit for others last year and fell in it themselves, hey thought that they could safely lay traps for newspapers, and for newspaper men, and could anything they liked without any disastrons they affronted the press or the public. They ought to realize by this time that their blundering policy proved already extremely expensive and astrous, and that it has done incalculable injury to the turf generally. It must be plain to them to the turf generally. It must be plain to them to the turf generally. It must be plain to them to the turf generally. It must be plain to them to the turf generally. It must be plain to them to the turf generally wise, and his friends say: What a wonderful trainer be is, are the horse's life hung by a single thread when he fell into the hands of the wonderful trainer. targely due to the hostility which they had ranger he is, ar the horse's life hums by a single result of the election. In New-derese hast Newment already due to the hostility which they had saltered up by their teledensible policy and methods. When the racetracks of New-Jersey succeeded in getting the scandalous racetrack bills through the Legislature last year they were laying up for themselves a store of wrath which was wreaked upon them when the votes were cast in November. They were sowing the wind, and they reaped the whirdwind. Yet it is not probable that the scandals and infamiles at Trenton a year any would have brought about so complete a revolution at the election. In November if the racetrack managers had not done so many offensive things to keep up and intensity the public dislike and emity. The wrongs and crimes of the Trenton session might have been to some extent forgotten and overlooked, but the Monmouth Park managers, and their allies and associates in New-Gersey; by their methods and prastices during the racing season of 180 kept the whole subject of turf abuses and evils in the public mind at all times until the ballots were cast at the election. The Law and Order leadures and the other racetrack managers had not committed the mistakes and hunders which they did commit. It was the most appears and to increase the hostility of the public by the action which they took. This truth ought to be perfectly plain to seem new.

TURP INTERISETS EVERYWHEERS INJURED.
They ought also to realize that their policy and methods have made a tremendous difference in the real value of all turf interests in all parts of the truth ought to be perfectly plain to seem new.

TURP INTERISETS EVERYWHEERS INJURED.
They ought also to realize that their policy and methods have made a tremendous difference in the real value of all turf interests in all parts of the realize the same and the other stalllons in which he is interested at Belle Meade, are not so valuable as they were a part and of the committed greatly. The disasters which the Monmouth Park base that irr mouth Park bosses brought upon the turf in New-Jersey, and the damage which they did to racing Interests in every State in the Union by their Jersey, and the damage which they fill to facing interests in every State in the Union by their bunders and their recalessness, will be felt at all the annual yearling sales, and will be observed at every racing meeting in the East for years to come. The brood mares at Beile Meade are not worth so much as they were a year ago. The coits and filles at Beile Meade are worth less, So are Mr. Croker's racehorses in training. His Dobbins, the apple of his eye and the pride of his heart, and his Prince George, and the other horses which will carry his Yale blue, with gold tassel, in the season of 184 have fallen off in value.

So with other breeding-farms and other racing stables, John A. Morris's farms and racehorses are not worth so much as they were before he began to fight the newspapers of New-York and the public of New-Jersey. His stallions and brood mares, his Russell and his Reckon, his St. Florian-all the animus that have carried and will carry the all safriet-have gone off in genuine value since the occurrences at Monmouth in 1833. Michael F. Dwyer's stable would not sell for nearly so much to-day as it would have sold for a year ago. This is true also of the horses of Philip J. Dwyer. The shares of the capital stock of all the racing associations are depreciated since the Monmouth managers and their allies and associates entered upon their foolish crusade against the press and the public last summer. If any racecourse in New-Jersey were put up at auction at any time this spring, how much bidding would there be on it? SUCCESS OF THE BEAR CAMPAIGN.

The loss of public confidence which attended and followed the mistakes made by racing managers last season and in previous seasons must undoubt-edly lessen the revenues of the jockey clubs, must edly lessen the revenues of the jockey clubs, must lower the prices at the annual sales of yearlings, must reduce in every way the importance and the reputation of the American turf. It is not at all probable that there will be any racing in New-Jersey this year. The fact that there will be no racing in that State and the fact that hard times and the loss of public confidence will cut down the attendance of all the racetracks of the country most seriously this year inevitably reduce the value of every thoroughbred horse, and every piece of racing property of any kind in every State in the Union. So the besses of Monmouth Park and their friends must understand by this time that they have carried on a stupendous hear campaign against the prosperity of the American turf. In the destruction of public confidence, in the depreciation of values, in injury to the prosperity and future of racing, this bear campaign was a tremendous success.

of values, in injury to the prosperity and future of racing, this bear campaign was a tremendous success.

Some shallow and short-sighted people say that it is unjust and unfair that the State of New-Jersey should legislate against betting-rings on race-courses, because they say jockey clubs will not carry on racing without betting-rings, and if racing is suppressed altogether in New-Jersey, the millions of dollars invested in the turf will be made valueless. When pubus sentiment is once thoroughly aroused against turf gambling, and when the voters of a State decide that the Legislature must put a stop to gambling on racetracks, no attention will be paid to any such specious and foolish plea as this. Everybody who invests money in racetracks or race-horses, does it at the risk of losing his investment if the turf is so mismanegal as to excite public indignation analist the jockey clubs. Millions of dollars invested in liquor shops, beer saloons and breweries were practically whigh out of existence when Prohibition laws were adopted by certain States. But the United States Supreme Court has held that the Prohibition laws are entirely constitutional, and that brewers and keepers of liquor shops and beer saloons cannot recover any damages from State town or city on account of the passage of such laws. So it will be in regard to the turf. If a majority of the people of any State—as New-Jersey, for instance-become thoroughly convinced that racetracks with their betting-ring attachments are nuisances and jetrimental to the public interests, they will surely romed their Legislature to close the racetracks and keep them closed. No argument as to the destruction of great property interests will have any value with the voters if they become convinced that it is for the benefit of the majority of the people that racing with its betting accompaniments be suppressed.

TOO MUCH TO SAY ABOUT RACING IN THIS STATE.

The bosses of Monmouth Park ought to have conddered that last summer. If they had thought of the possibility of the November election and of urday afternoon. The other sale days will be as anmight have hesitated before they took the action which they did take. These same Monmouth Park bosses have still altogether too much to say about racing in New-York. The Board of Control has practically passed out of existence. Its star-chamber methods, its hostility to the press, its contempt for the public, its innumerable blunders, made it most unpopular, and it has been swept away. But some of its members and some of the Monmouth Park bosses are still too conspicuous and influential on the turf of the Empire State. They must be content with obscurity. They must hope and pray for the forgiveness of the public. They must retire into the background and keep their hands off the work of reorganization and reform, or the people of New-York may decide that betting-rings and racetracks shall be things of the past. bosses have still altogether too much to say about

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The Coney Island Jockey Club stakes are likely to be announced on March 1. There are many ous inquiries made every day in regard to the Suburban Handicap, J. G. K. Lawrence is so anxious to make the conditions of the stakes attractive to owners that he sent to all the leading stake books. The conditions of the stakes to be run at the Coney Island track are a conglomeration of clauses selected from his collection of books. The stakes were all ready for announcement when books arrived from Novgorod and Vladivostock, and another delay was caused on account of the difficulty in securing a person able to translate the conditions. At the rooms of the club yesterday it was impossible to find out the exact date on which the book will be issued, as the mails from Crim Tartary and Samoa have been delayed on account of the time spent in the formation of the Hawalian

At the tracks the trainers have begun the preliminary work of preparation of the horses engaged in the stakes that are to be decided at the early spring meeting. The stormy weather, however, is likely to thwart these plans. Nearly all of the successful trainers take advantage of every day that permits outdoor work, as a good long trot or canter in the open air is more beneficial than

One fact that is well known to horsemen is the aversion of trainers to take charge of horses that have performed creditably, as they are afraid of losing their reputations as skilful trainers. From the hour that a high-class horse is transferred to their care excuses are in order, and are made the most flimsy pretexts. It is not the ordinary every-day trainer who complains about the treat-ment which horses have received before the animals were turned over to his care, but the alleged stars

His temper is alluded to, but Lamplighter was always high-strung and possessed so much intelligence that he objected to the stupid REPUBLICANS NOW IN CONTROL STANDING COMmethods of fussy grooms, who gave him no peace, but were continually irritating him by their attentions. Their ages range from six to fifteen years. On Thursday a crowd of hove were noticed playing on the tracks of the Central Railroad at Polk at. At 5 p. m. they drew up in line to watch a train pass. The conductor of the train noticed a strainge jar of the cars as the train passed the switch, and running to the rear platform was in time to see that a coupling-pin had been wedged in the rail of the switch. He stopped the train and ran back to the switch, the boys running away at his approach. The coupling-pin was removed with some difficulty. The New-York express was due in five minutes and the conductor's action undoubtedly saved it from being wrecked! He attributed the fault of the existing situation, however, not to the politicians, who were decelled in regard to the political duties of attending primaries and voting at election. Dr. Cooper's strong words have created a sensation throughout New-Hrunswick. The Rev. Dr. James It. Mace, pastor of St. James Methodist Episcopal Church, will preach the second sermon in the series two weeks from last night. His subject will be "Lights and Shadows of New-Brunswick." dition was so alarming that three physicians were in attendance. Mr. Stover has been a prominent candidate for the office of postmaster for Plainfield, and his friends say that his prostration is due to worriment over the uncertainty of the nomination. There are about twenty-five candidates for the office, all of whom "have hopes." Mr. Stover is well known in New-York legal circles, being an editor of law publications and legal referee. HACKENSACK.	Fulda
On Friday evening, February 23, the members of the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Hackensack, presented to their pastor, the Rev. C. eral persons in front of Paige's Hotel, No. 30! Westst. late on Saturday night, has not yet been entirely cleared up. The police are confident that Captain Low's death resulted from natural causes and that his pockets were rifled by the loafers and 'wharf rats' who infest the neighborhood. Some of the dead man's friends still believe that he was drugged and then robbed, if not murdered. It is said that on the night of his death the old man had on his person a check for $1,125.62, drawn in bis favor by E. W. Morris, of No. 194 South-st. on the Market and Folton National Bank, a silver watch, about $29 in money, and a pocket memorandum book.

A son-in-law of Captain Low, E. K. Burnham, arrived in the city on Sunday night. Yesterday morning he directed Undertaker Kennedy, of No. 290 South Fifth-ave. who has had the body in charge, to prepare it for shipment to Gioucester on the midnight train last night. | Berlin, American, Southampton. 5,00 a m 8,00 a m Germanic, White Star, Liverpool. 9,30 a m 12,30 p m Cherokee, Clede, Jacksonwille 3,30 p m Noordland, Bed Star, Aniwerp 10,000 a m 12,00 m City of Para, Columbian, Colon. 9,20 a m 12,200 m Panatna, Spanish, Havana. 12,000 m 2,15 p m THURSDAY, MARCH I.
